Sector: Professional Services - Lawyers

Obligations Concerned: National Treatment (Articles 10.3 and 11.2)
Senior Management and Boards of Directors (Article 10.10)

Level of Government: Central

Measures: Article 3 and 16 of Law No. 9 of April 18, 1984

Description: Cross-Border Services and Investment

Only a Panamanian national who holds a certificate of qualification issued by the Supreme Court may practice law in Panama. The practice of law in Panama includes judicial representation before civil, penal, labor, child welfare, electoral, administrative, or maritime tribunal; the rendering of verbal or written legal advice; drafting of legal documents and contracts; and any other activity that requires a license to practice law in Panama.

Law partnerships may be established only by lawyers competent to practice law in Panama.

However, to the extent permitted by the express terms of international agreements, a lawyer who is a foreign national may provide advice with regard to international law and the law of the jurisdiction in which that lawyer is licensed to practice. This provision of advice shall not include representation before tribunals, courts, or judicial, administrative, or maritime authorities in the territory of Panama.

Panama agrees that nationals of the United States who are licensed to practice law in the United States may engage in cross-border supply of services described in the preceding paragraph, subject to the restriction set out in that paragraph, and may establish such services, subject to such restriction.

Sector: Professional Services - Accountants

Obligations Concerned: National Treatment (Article 11.2)
Market Access (Article 11.4)

Level of Government: Central

Measures: Articles 4, 7, 9, and 10 of Law 57 of September of 1978

Description: Cross-Border Services

Except as provided below, only Panamanian nationals who have obtained their Authorized Public Accountant license and juridical persons who meet the requirements of the above-referenced law may practice the profession of Authorized Public Accountant.

A U.S. national licensed to practice accounting in a jurisdiction of the United States shall be allowed to apply for a license to practice accounting in Panama to the extent that the U.S. jurisdiction would allow a Panamanian national to apply for such a license. In such cases, the U.S. national shall be subject to the same requirements to receive a license as Panama would apply to an equivalently qualified Panamanian national.

In addition, the Accounting Technical Board may grant a special permit for a foreign accountant to practice accounting:

- (a) if the foreign accountant is licensed in a jurisdiction that allows a Panamanian accountant to practice subject to conditions no more burdensome than those required under Panamanian law;
- (b) as an internal auditor employed by an enterprise, a foreign banking entity with subsidiaries or branches in Panama, or a public international law organization;
- (c) if the foreign accountant has proven that, at that moment, there are no Panamanian accountants available for the particular type of service that the foreign accountant seeks to supply; or
- (d) if the foreign accountant is married to a Panamanian or has been a resident of Panama for at least ten years.

However this special permit does not authorize a foreign national to provide official certifications or attestations.

Foreign enterprises may practice the profession only in association with a Panamanian accountancy enterprise.

Cross-Border Services

Only a Panamanian may practice as a healthcare professional; agricultural science professional; barber; chemist; cosmetologist; customs agent; economist; journalist; library scientist; public relations specialist; real state agent; social worker; sociologist; public translator; speech and language therapist; and veterinary doctor.

However a foreign national may practice in the following professions if the relevant professional council finds that no qualified Panamanian is available: agricultural science professional; chemist; dietitian; medical doctor; medical radiology technician; nurse; nutritionist; odontologist; and veterinary doctor.

Foreign journalists engaged as correspondents for wire services or other foreign media will be accredited by the Junta Técnica de Periodismo and allowed to practice on that basis for the duration of their contractual service. Any foreign journalist engaged in a temporary professional mission in Panama will, upon registration with the Junta Técnica, be issued a temporary permit to practice journalism in Panama.

Notwithstanding existing measures relating to requirements for the practice of professions referred to in this entry, the respective professional associations, institutions, or any other entity with authority to grant a license for the practice of the professions listed in the measures element of this entry (hereinafter referred to as the “Authority”) will recognize the license granted by a jurisdiction in the United States, and allow the holder of that license to register with the Authority and to practice the profession in Panama, on a temporary basis, based on the license issued in a jurisdiction in the United States, in the following cases:

- (a) no educational institution in Panama offers a course of study that would allow the practice of the profession in Panama;
- (b) the holder of the license is a recognized expert in the profession; or
- (c) allowing the professional to practice in Panama will, through training, demonstration, or other such opportunity, further the development of the profession in Panama.
